

My family and I love listening to K-Love. It is family friendly, uplifting and my children love listening to the songs. I don't have to worry about what the next song will be or what the topic is that they are talking about. K-Love has such good advice and motivating stories on parenting, marriage, money and many other aspects of life that everyone listening can relate too. I know that K-Love has a huge impact on the public. Everyday you hear stories from listeners on how a song or a topic has changed their life. K-Love gives people hope and encouragement and if you take K-Love off the air and replace it with some LPFM station you are not going to have the same wholesome values and positive and encouraging impact on the listeners. We have enough garbage on the other radio stations and television that we as listeners deserve to have the option of a station like K-Love. People want these values; they don't want to worry about what their kids are listening too. They know that when they turn on K-Love the message and songs are positive, uplifting and encouraging. Just the other day I heard how two suicides were avoided because they were able to call into K-Love and talk to someone who really cared about them. I don't think the public will be able to do that with some LPFM station. Please do not take K-Love off the air.
